

NAVIGATING COMPLEXITY,
DELIVERING SIMPLICITY

INFORMATION REQUEST

Document Title Goes Here

Prepared by PT Stratcon Agara Global for Counterparty Name

Opening paragraph. One or two sentences saying why this document exists and what the reader is being asked to do with it.

Second paragraph. Set out the scope: what the document covers, what it deliberately leaves out, and anything the reader should have to hand before they start.

Third paragraph. State how precise the answers need to be, and say plainly that an incomplete answer is better than no answer.

HOW TO RESPOND

Type each answer into the shaded box beneath the question. The boxes expand as you type, and they also print as blank boxes if you prefer to write by hand.

A useful answer gives the figure or position first, then any conditions, then whether it is final or indicative.

Please return completed responses to name@stratconagaraglobal.com.

WHAT THIS DOCUMENT COVERS

Context	Where this came from	1 question
Scope	What is being asked for	2 questions
Commercials	What it costs and who pays	2 questions

CONTEXT

Where this came from

- 01 First question. Keep it to one idea, phrased so the answer can be a figure, a position or a short statement.

RESPONSE

SCOPE

What is being asked for

- 02 Second question, sitting under its own section band.

RESPONSE

- 03 Third question. Sections can hold as many items as needed and the numbering runs continuously across the whole document.

RESPONSE

COMMERCIALS

What it costs and who pays

- 04 Fourth question.

RESPONSE

05

Fifth question, a longer one, to show how a question that runs to two or three lines sits against its number in the gutter and stays locked to its own response box.

RESPONSE

ANYTHING ELSE WE SHOULD KNOW

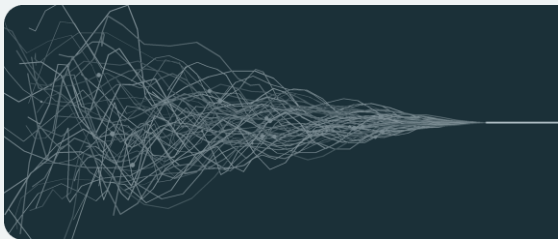

Context, constraints or corrections that the questions above do not reach.

YOUR CONTACT AT STRATCON AGARA GLOBAL

Eng. Ahmed Y. S. Khalifa

Project Strategic Engineer · PT Stratcon Agara Global

ahmed.khalifa@stratconagara.global · +62 812 10020646

NAVIGATING COMPLEXITY,
DELIVERING SIMPLICITY

